Summary

I am a Full Stack Web Developer with 2+ years of experience specializing in ASP.NET Core, Angular, EF Core, LINQ, and SQL Server. I build scalable and user-friendly applications with clean architecture and optimized performance.

My experience includes working on enterprise-level ERP solutions such as Customer Relationship Management systems, Performance Management Systems etc. I handle projects end-to-end — from designing responsive UIs in Angular to implementing robust backend logic and database design.

I hold an MS in Computer Engineering from Bahria University, where I researched machine learning and image forgery detection. Additionally, I have certifications in ASP.NET Core, Web API development, and programming fundamentals.

Passionate about learning and growth, I enjoy solving real-world challenges with technology and am eager to contribute to innovative projects that make an impact.
